

WE NOMINATE

William Kirkpatrick Selden, nationally known consultant in the field of American higher education, a former college president and for 10 years director of an association involving some 1,200 colleges and universities, who has accepted the chairmanship of an 8-member committee charged with exploring the possibilities, and feasibility, of bringing into being a Princeton Arts Council. The 55-year old educator, in his second year as a "returned Princetonian" following an absence of almost three decades, believes that between now and early summer he and his associates can complete a comprehensive inventory of the present activities, aspirations and basic needs of "the arts in Princeton."

The creation of the Selden "task force," growing out of a series of meetings sponsored by the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council and attracting representatives of some two dozen Princeton organizations, could well be a high-water mark in this community's development. In view of the widespread and growing interest in the arts, in view of the success of arts councils in other areas, and in the light of recent developments on both the national and state levels, Selden feels that "it is appropriate that steps be taken at this time to provide the means for increased cooperation of those in Princeton active in, and concerned with, the arts."

Ever since graduating from Princeton in 1934, Selden, a native of Oil City, Pa., has been immersed in education. He started here as Assistant to the Deans of the College and Faculty. A year with Eastman Kodak was followed by eight years in the administration of Brown University and then an eight-year period at Northwestern (1945-1953) where he was Director of Admissions as well as a Dean and University Recorder. From the presidency of Illinois College (Jacksonville, Ill.), he was called to Washington in 1955 to "head up" the National Commission on Accrediting, an organization which injected a degree of sanity into the workings of myriad educational associations.

Wherever he has been, Selden, vice-president of Columbia University's American Assembly until he embarked upon his "new career" as an independent consultant, has played major roles in service activities. In Providence, Evanston and Jacksonville his interests ranged from churches, hospitals and youth programs to bureaus serving veterans of the Armed Forces, the Y.M.C.A., governmental commissions and advisory groups in the general area of education. Among his organizational affiliations have been the Episcopal Church Society for Church Work, the Presbyterian Board for Christian Education, the CIT Financial Foundation and the St. John's Orphanage Association.

Among Selden's favorite Princeton reminiscences is how he happened to become an educator. At the Senior Banquet in 1934 he was seated next to the late Dean Christian Gauss. "When he inquired about my plans, I replied that I was entered at the Harvard Business School. In an off-hand way he suggested that I might stop by his office for a talk. I had completely forgotten his invitation until one day I happened to be passing his office. He immediately accosted me: 'You were coming to see me!' I hastily replied in the affirmative. A few minutes later he offered me the position of being his assistant the coming year. Through this incident my vocation was selected!"

For accepting a new set of responsibilities of far-reaching significance to the Princeton Community; for seeking out the advice of those presently concerned with the arts before attempting to define the functions of a Princeton Arts Council; for lending substance to the hope that the arts in Princeton are about to enter upon a new era; he is our nominee as

"WHAT YOU GONNA DO?"
Why? The Music Stops!"
Eight Negro boys singing in an empty hall, blending improvising. They break into soft laughter, stam the feet, try again.

A boy at the piano weaves intricate, passionate notes around their song, creating mood music alien to the juke boxes of Nassau Street and school dances.

Boys and girls murmur in the corners of the room. A girl slips to her feet and dances alone, her face open and smiling. Other youngsters lounge by a bulletin board panned with college brochures. The falsetto soars, "What You Gonna Do When the Music Stops?"

This is "Pseukey." Sixty-one Princeton Negro teenagers belong. Pseukey, they tell you, means "soul." Before the evening is out, there is a brainstorming session about life as they see it.

"Most of the Princeton Negro kids don't feel there is any future for them in this community," says Herb McGinn, who picked up nine

"THE BREAK I WAS LOOKING FOR," says Herb McGinn, a first-year student at Princeton Seminary, "came one night at a dance at St. Andrew's Church. Some of the kids were milling around the instruments during the musicians' break. I offered to get together with them the next Monday evening. I could tell they loved music and I brought along a friend from the Seminary Choir." The group was named Pseukey, Greek for "soul." teenage community in the Coffee House ministry," according to the flier sent out by the reactor, the Rev. Dr. Robert T. Spores Jr., and the Rev. Arthur J. Lockhart.

Student Lounge: "The Witherspoon building is a much better site for a student lounge than Miss Finn's gym," Thomas B. Hartmann, head of Parents For Youth told TOPICS on Thursday. The group will ask the Borough Mayor and Council to permit their use of the Engineering Building on Witherspoon Street, also known as the "Community Building," when it is vacated this summer.

"The Witherspoon building lends itself to many different and constructive programs for the youngsters," Mr. Hartmann added. "I think we can have one of the unique centers in the country. People have been calling me with suggestions for the church, its clergy and property."

"It is almost as though you can get away with," the Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel told a group of about 30 teenagers on Friday afternoon.

"We don't want to make life the Presbyterians out of you. That isn't our purpose, but a number of our people are very concerned about you. We would like to help." He expressed the admiration and respect the church authorities feel towards the youth counseling by Princeton Seminary Bill Knight, who has managed the Tomb since last year.

According to Dr. Meisel, the Tomb will re-open at some time in the future, "but not on the present terms." The teenagers, who seemed either bewildered or resentful of the closing, were uncommunicative when asked how they can the Tomb do for you?" A girl suggested "more food," and a boy said, "How about a pool table?"

The teenagers are asked to give suggestions to Bill Knight.

Other Efforts. Also, during the past week, the nine-man committee of experts in the fields of sociology, education and problem-solving, held their second meeting to discuss teen behavior and sent a letter to Mayor Patterson making several recommendations. (See Topics of the Town.) The group is an outgrowth of a suggestion by President Robert L. Gabelson of Princeton.

And at Trinity Church, parish adults interested in "The Catechism," where the main focus on Friday and Saturday nights for teenagers, will attend a workshop at 11:30 church this Thursday. The purpose is "to dig deeper into the attitudes and other areas of concern in working most effectively with the

ple rather than offices."

Mr. Fox and his wife Ruth, George Packard and Mrs. Alice Breesee as a Parents' subcommittee have studied the building with 15 members of the tenagers' Student Lounge Committee. Mr. Fox spent the weekend writing a new proposal for the Mayor and Council.

"The key to everything is the dollar invested. We would either have it in program, personnel and equipment. We would like to have top personnel this summer before we had the use of the building, starting on programs, working with the kids. We will be in what the kids have requested, relate this to the use of the building. Most of it could be done."

Questionnaire. About 85 teenagers were polled last week by Rogers Carrington of Youth Associates to learn priorities in teen interests. First on the list is a "drop-in lounge," equipped with popular music, dance floor, tables, a stage and an announcement board. Second on the list are indoor games such as ping pong, pool. Third is a folk music workshop and fourth, rooms were bands can practice.

Topping the list of organizations they would like to see at the center, the Youth Employment Service, and an office for the fortnightly newspaper "The Changing Times." YES drew the greatest response.

A Teen Unity in Action committee is also endorsed by the teenagers for the lounge.

According to Mr. Carrington the TUAC would work with an adult advisory board. Its purpose would be to coordinate activities between the four high schools, develop ways of teenagers to become more reponsible in terms of the town and to look for job opportunities in the different social agencies in terms of training and serving as an adjunct to the agencies. "Maybe a social worker would discover a family that needed help with its younger children, the trained girls could work with them."

Research and Training. Youth associates itself hopes to become a research and training center for young adults interested in teenagers. The foundation funds become available. "The churches can back up a young minister like Bill Knight in a great many ways, but through knowledge. This field of youth ministry is too new," Mr. Carrington adds.

An ordained Presbyterian minister, he meets weekly at breakfast or lunch with Bill Knight and Herb McGuinn to talk over the youth problems "on the most basic grassroots level."

On still another level, the Teen Age Concerns Committee meets on the 17th at the Stuart school to hear Herb McGuinn discuss Pseukay. The group is also tackling the problems of the drop-out, who is usually excluded from the various dances and coffee houses, and who, if he has served a term in reform school, is discouraged by the police from returning to school. ("He's a trouble maker.")

This group is a broad cross-section of adults directly in-

SNOW? WHAT'S THAT?
About a foot. "It's a really good example of a really good storm," said David Ludlum, Princeton's built-in snowman late Tuesday afternoon.

Whether the 11-man crew that checked in with Borough Engineer Thomas Cawley for an all-night opening Tuesday night would agree with Mr. Ludlum, is open to question.

They kept at it, Borough and Township, from about dawn on Tuesday morning. (The snow began at 3 a.m.) But it was like one of those fairy tales where the more you dig the more there is to dig. Drifts, piled by gusts that hit 30 miles an hour, slipped over the roads right behind the plows and an hour later, you'd never think the road had been plowed at all.

In the Township, where a rural way of life still maintains in the far corners, Borough Engineer Frank Quinby worked consistently on the main arteries, like Valley Road, to keep moving whatever traffic there was.

Township police responded to a pair of "Good Samaritan" calls. In one instance, a patrol car took food to a snow-bound invalid. In a second, police picked up a doctor who had been called on an emergency.

Get the Drift? State plows were out on Route 206 by 3:30 a.m. Mercer County sent plows out, too, but in the widespread area of the county, a lot of roads were badly before the plows could get back.

Rosedale Road, for example, Township police say the County plowed Rosedale twice during the day on Tuesday. But when Educational Testing Service closed at noon, the stream of ETS cars made an unbelievable traffic snarl on Rosedale, especially on the hill near Johnson Park School.

Another Township tie-up occurred outside the Princeton Shopping Center at North Harrison and Valley. Here, at the north entrance near Bamberger's, a bus got splendidly stuck. There was also a minor accident between two cars at Walnut and Guyot.

But there were no major accidents—mostly because drivers were going so slowly. At the corner of Nassau and Washington Road, a Borough snow plow caught the edge of a car and shoved it ingloriously into a manhole. Part way into the manhole, that is. And of course, cars were piled up, stuck in, twined around and frequently abandoned, all over town.

Push! Township equipment includes a big grader, four plows, a jeep with a plow and a front-end loader. In the Borough, there is a big Trolan loader, five trucks and a small jeep.

The big problem in the Borough is—where do we dump the snow? Last year, there was a nice deep hole where Miss Fine's School had been razed. But now there is a nice big new Borough Hall there, in process of construction.

The Borough's favorite dumping grounds have been the end of Broadmead and the old quarry at the east end of Spruce Street. Late Tuesday, however, the Borough wasn't ready yet to dump—it was still frantically trying to push aside before the drifts did.

We're in Business. Tuesday was a day that went on as usual in many ways. "Just another routine day," said John Kauffman, administrator of Princeton Hospital. His staff prepared Tuesday ready for work, and the hospital has arrangements for staff members to stay overnight when bad storms come.

At the Princeton Post Office, Postmaster John Dilworth looked out his window and said it wasn't as bad as other snows he could remember. Out of a staff of 146 men, only 15 were absentees. "We did all the foot routes," Mr. Dilworth said, "but some of our mounted routes couldn't finish. And we had about seven trucks get stuck during the day."

Princeton University went ahead with classes—although one undergraduate said of his professor, "He let us out early so we didn't seem to have much to say."

Public and private schools were closed Tuesday was the first "snow day" of the school year, and Wednesday probably the second. School officials usually set aside three "snow days" a year when they calculate the school year calendar of 180 days. Schools have to close because buses can't make it over the drifted, hilly roads.

Two marooned diners spent the night. Tuesday in the Johnson Park School off Rosedale Road, they had food from the cafeteria, heat and the school's television set.

Township Hall was closed on Tuesday, but Borough Hall was open, and Mayor Henry S. Patterson held his usual Tuesday press conference.

The storm came on fast, according to Mr. Ludlum. Its center was far south in Alabama on Monday afternoon, but by Monday evening, it was all the way to South Carolina. "We would have had even more snow if the storm had traveled slowly," Mr. Ludlum said. As it was, about a foot had fallen by twilight on Tuesday.

And from still another angle, Princeton High School has 42 students enrolled in three programs that combine jobs with classes. These are the programs, "interships" he calls them, that interest Herb McGinnis. When Newark meets on Monday evenings upstairs at Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church and the tone discouraged, he sees this need.

Wiles Slesman, 31½ was valued at $375 were stolen sometime Friday night from Mario's Beauty Shop, 101½ Nassau Street. The theft was reported to Borough police by Mario's brother, Joseph Slesman, owner of the shop.

Thieves broke a pane in the front door and released the latch, police said. Besides lifting the hairpieces, the burglars took $20 from the cash register and $120 more from a back room.

Five shotguns, several pieces of jewelry and various appliances were taken over the weekend from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Henry, 9 Heather Lane. Mr. Henry reported the theft to Township police when he returned home on Monday after a weekend away from home. The burglar forced a locked door to gain entry, according to Sgt. Fred Porter.

GARDEN AND LINCOLN
Is Paris Burning? now playing! The best-selling novel comes out on the screen as a tousing tale of suspense.

There is much interplay between the rival forces of the Parisian Resistance, the de Gaulle forces and Communist forces; the director of German General von Choltitz, ordered by Hitler to destroy the city if he could not defend it; the pressure put upon the Allied command to reverse its stand on by-passing Paris temporarily; the intrigue in negotiation of the French Consult.

The most exciting monologues ever presented to an actor by a generous playwright. And Beckett seems to comment, upon Lucky's collapse at the end of the monologue. See? That's what happens to people who try to think.

Well, what to make of "Go, dog!": Either it's "your" play, totally and viscerally, or you hate it. Make of it what you will, because it's open to every opinion of opinion and thought, but it is without question, life itself.

We wait for a Godot who can't come this evening but will surely come tomorrow! "What do we do now?" is a reasonable question. We insult each other "erratic" is the worst quality of all we'll play at being temporarily estranged ("you always come crawling back to me," exclaims Vladimir to Estragon); we try to imitate the dead tree of life that is the only visible proof in a propellerless world and we even accept for a moment its exuberant tantalizing symbol of hope—the little green leaf of spring.

"A FUNNY THING . . ."
Plautus, waiting to go on. Plautus was known as a crowd-pleasing playwright in his own time, that being a considerable number of years what it is.

He will turn his broad wit to a contemporary Princeton audience this Friday at 8:30 when "The Braggart Warrior" opens in McCarter as the second play in the spring drama series. It was from "The Braggart Warrior" that the musical, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Town," was derived.

"I can't go on like this," moans Estragon. "That's what YOU think," Vladimir replies. They wait together for Godot. Why? Because Godot has told them to, and they will be punished if they don't. Is "Go, dog!" indeed a bilingual pun meaning "god" and the French word for "water"? Maybe. But Vladimir and Estragon wait without any apparent thirst or yearning, only with an irritable desire to meet Godot and get it over with.

"We may not be saints," says Estragon, picking ruefully at his bare toes, "but we have kept the appointment." What else can any man say?

MAKE-UP, JUST FOR YOU! Mary Kapla stands in her Lawrenceville salon, with a rose on the wall to symbolize the dewy freshness every woman wants for her skin, and the complete Viviane Woodard make-up kit. Want to learn how to apply make-up professionally? Call Maison de Marie.

use a visit in your home. In any case, Mrs. Kapla wants to make it very clear that her products are not sold from door to door. You must make the appointment yourself and invite the teacher into your own home.

A Viviane Woodard starter kit, $13.95, begins with facial materials. A Woodard facial takes only three minutes, and Mrs. Kapla recommends one each morning and evening.

The kit begins with a creamy lotion which you combine with water and use on your face instead of soap. Then comes astringent (no alcohol in this at all) applied with cotton ball, to prepare the skin for the moisturizer. Mrs. Kapla and V. W. are strong on moisturizing because they believe that the skin of a modern woman suffers more from the drying effects of overheated homes, winter winds, summer sun than from any other factor.

So—the facial. Then, there are two make-up kits, one $12.85 and the other $18.70. In the big one, you get hair-aplo, a dry brush-out rouge; lipstick; dry eyeshadow; cake eyeliner; a lipstick brush and an eyeshadow brush; pollen mascara; and brush-lash color for the eyebrows. The small kit simply omits the dry rouge, the eyebrow and lipstick brushes.

But it's the big master kit, $24.95, that gives you the complete performance. Here you have the facial ingredients: a translucent powder, corrective, to conceal and help to heal skin discolorations; a make-up base and application sponge; rouge (one color, by the way); it blends in to each individual skin tone to give you a genuine "custom" color; Deluscent, a liquid oil to apply at night under the eyes and on the throat where oil glands are scant; and a sponsoise to use for refreshing your face on a warm day—it won't spoil your make-up.

For teens with problem skins, Maison de Marie has medicated make-up geared for either oily or dry conditions. The Viviane Woodard line also has five fragrances in toilet

IT'S NEW To Us

DO I LOVE YOU?
A pert redhead with a hole in her head could be your way of saying "Be My Valentine" this year.

She's a six-inch heavy cardboard disc, grooved just right to spin around on your record turntable. Put her on the spindle and she plays Cole Porter's "Do I Love You" while John Gorman sings and the Berkshire Ramblers play the tune.

This is one of Western Union's "Melody-grams," and for Valentine's Day, it comes in a giant card, with glamorous rednecks and hand-drawn gold lettering—not just a yellow telegram, for heaven's sake. The envelope is nicely red and gold, too, with plenty of room to give your name or let her guess, whichever you prefer.

There are lots of other Melody-grams, some of them equally suited to the day, like "I Wish You Love" or "Everything's Coming Up Roses," or even "I Want to Communicate With You."

To order a Melody-gram from Western Union for Valentine's Day, just call 924-2020.

The record, by the way, was made by Columbia. You play it manually at 33 1/3.

You might also consider, for Valentine's Day, Western Union's offer of flowers by wire, perfume by wire ("Flirt" from the House of Jourdan, in half-ounce perfume and two and one-quarter ounce cologne, packaged in a gift box), or a candy-gram, sweet as pie.

LET'S MAKE UP
Learn The Professional Way

After two lessons from the young experts at La Maison de Marie, 2664 Main Street, Lawrenceville, you'll be able to apply your make-up so deftly and with such precise attention to your own particular facial characteristics that everyone will think you've just stepped off the plane from Hollywood.

The presiding genius at Maison de Marie is Mrs. Mary Kapla. Her line of cosmetics is Viviane Woodard Cosmetics of Los Angeles and that western address underlines the professional, Hollywood-oriented approach at the little Lawrenceville salon.

Mrs. Kapla has trained a group of young women in the art of make-up and more importantly, in the art of teaching you how to apply your own make-up. Call the Maison, at 896-1971, and make an appointment. One of the young ladies will come to your home with a Viviane Woodard kit, and in two separate lessons will show you exactly how to enhance your appearance with make-up.

If you prefer, you may stop at the Maison itself, rather than make an appointment for LAURENCE 451: Julie Christie and Oskar Werner portray the middle-class children in a future world dominated by television and comics in the science fiction film now at the Playhouse.

General in Paris. There are many interesting moments, but the most strikingly-handled scene in the nearly three-hour long film occurs when a collaborator leads a group of student resisters into a Gestapo trap and they are machine-gunned at night in the Bois de Boulogne. The sight of the youthful bodies falling (done partly in slow motion) is a sad and awful thing to see.

A number of "name" actors appear: Charles Boyer, Leslie Caron, Alain Delon, Kirk Douglas, Glenn Ford, Gert Fröbe, Yves Montand, Simone Signoret, Orson Wells and many others. Fröbe, incidentally, gives an excellent performance as von Choltitz.

A tremendous project has been undertaken here to show the complicated machinations involved in trying to free a city during wartime, while at the same time trying to prevent its destruction. Thousands of actors, soldiers and civilians were utilized in the filming, as well as vast quantities of munitions, weapons and vehicles. The result is a slightly sprawling event, a bit overlong, but filled with excitement and action.

The Green Sheet suggests the film is not suitable for children.

large-screen television on living room walls.

In its materialistic world, reading is strictly forbidden by the authorities, as is the possession of books of any kind. Oskar Werner appears as a member of the "firemen" whose job it is to search out illicit libraries and burn them. He chances upon a copy of "David Copperfield" and joins the ranks of the rebels.

Julie Christie, in a dual role, is the lonely girl in the neighborhood who helps Werner escape, and the shrewish wife who betrays him.

The weird story is told in a curiously straightforward fashion that uses the futuristic gimmicks matter-of-factly and treats the unusual happenings as routine. There is a strange change in tone at the bitter-sweet ending.

Green Sheet rating — okay for adults and mature youth.

"HAMLET" ON TV
With McCarter Actors. The young New Jersey high school students will experience the excitement of discovering poetic thesaurus, learning about Shakespearean production and appearing on television. In Shakespeare when Channel 19 presents a series of three programs next week, based from McCarter Theatre.

The programs will be given next Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6:30 p.m. on the series, "New Jersey Speaks for Itself."

During the Monday half-hour, the students will be introduced to poetic theatre by Arthur W. Lithgow, McCarter's executive director.

On Wednesday Charles D. Tomlinson, McCarter's costume designer, will talk about costumes, properties and technical details with Mr. Lithgow and the students.

On Friday, the students themselves will read from Shakespeare and will watch while George Hoerns as Hamlet, and Tamara Daniel as Gertrude, from the McCarter company, perform the closest scene from "Hamlet."

LIKE COUNTRY DANCING? Slip on Your Slippers. An evening of English country dance will be held on Saturday, February 25, at the studios of the Princeton Ballet Society, 262 Alexander Street. Miss May Gadd, director of the Country Dance Society of America, will conduct the session for the second successive year. The Society plans a series of folk-dance evenings with an expert teacher representing each national dance style. The programs will be arranged by Audrey Essey, director of the Society, and Mrs. Leslie Humezant, chairman of its education committee. Joseph Simko and Joseph Edmonds of the Princeton Folk Dance Group are co-chairmen.

"THE VANISHING SEA" Subject of Wildlife Film. "The Vanishing Sea" will be shown Monday evening at 8 by the Princeton Naturalists Club in Junior High School No. 3, West State Street and Parkside Avenue, Trenton. A National Audubon Society Wildlife Film, "The Vanishing Sea," portrays in intimate detail the wildlife surrounding the Great Salt Lake in Utah. The narrator will be Robert W. Davison, a nature photographer whose work appeared in the Eastman Kodak Pavilion at the New York World's Fair and in late "Wild Kingdom," a television series. Tickets may be obtained at the door. The film is open to the public.

MOLIERE? He's Still Alive. A 17th century comedy which makes fun of people who only admire "in" poets, attacks pretentiousness at all levels and makes merry with bored sophistication, proves once again the timelessness of a great writer. The play is Moliere's "Les Femmes Savantes," to be given in French and in modern dress by Le Troupeau de Paris at McCarter Theatre on Monday, February 20, at 1 p.m. matinee.

Le Troupeau de Paris ("the portable bands of Paris") is composed of French actors, directors and designers from most every theatre in Paris. It is now on its ninth annual tour of campus cities.

"VIRIDIANA" COMING "Bold," "Cynical," Luis Bunuel's "Viridiana," winner of the grand prize at the 1961 Cannes Film Festival, will be shown next Monday at 8 in McCarter's International Film Series.

Described as one of the "wildest, crudest and most cynical stories ever filmed," "Viridiana," depicts the evils of the kind of sentimental piety that exists in France's Spain along with the tyranny of the Franco regime. Two days after the film received the Cannes prize, it was banned in Spain and the Spanish Minister of Culture was forced to withdraw it from France. It will be shown in Spanish with English subtitles. Bunuel is best known for his surrealistic film, "Chien Chien," made with Salvador Dali.

EXPERIMENT! In Film. Such experimentalists as Eisenstein, Vsevolod, Dreyer, Pinfold and Lindsay Anderson will be shown on Monday, February 27, at 8 as one of McCarter Theatre's experimental film programs. Tickets are now available in advance from the box-office. A similar program last fall drew an SRO audience.

SENT IN YOUR SCRIPT? Original Plays Sought. The New Group for Theatre, registered this week its invitation to playwrights to submit their original manuscripts for possible inclusion in an April reading of plays in Murray Theatre.

Plays, written in any genre, style or length, should be submitted to Mrs. Susan Rosenberg, Director of the New Group, Box 349, Rocky Hill, Conn. no later than February 20. A stamped, self-addressed envelope should accompany each script.

water, cologne, perfume and bath powder, and two men's lines, "Edwardian" or simply "Woodward for Men."

It's fun to think what you might be able to accomplish with your skin and face under expert tutelage. You may make-up anyhow — why not buy it from somebody who can show you precisely how to use it?

RENT-A WHAT?

Would You Believe Swimming Pool? Last thing you'd ever think of renting? Think again.

Sylvan Pools, with offices in the Princeton Shopping Center, leases you on a winter day with thoughts of next summer, and suggests you rent a ground-level pool.

Why? Well, suppose you're renting the house you live in. Suppose you expect to be transferred before long. Suppose you just want to try out a pool to see whether the family will really use one before you take the big plunge and dig one for yourself.

This is not a backyard kiddie pool, Sylvan points out with pride. It's an all-aluminum pool and it comes in sizes ranging from 16 x 32 feet, to a whooper of 20 x 40 feet.

You get everything: filter, automatic chlorinator, surface skimmers, cleaning equipment, fencing, lockable gate and walkways. No excavation is required, and no heavy construction. And think of the money the kids can earn.

Sylvan says, anyone over 12 years old is skilful enough to maintain such a pool.

Sylvan also suggests pool rental for small communities without sufficient funds to build a municipal pool.

SITE FOR MONTGOMERY HIGH: Voters in Montgomery Township will decide next Tuesday whether to buy the site shown on this map, as the plot of land for their new high school and, eventually, another school. The land adjoins property now owned by the Montgomery Township School Board. Details in "Topics of the Town."

Topics Of The Town

plained "By that, I mean that temperatures were low—close to 10 degrees—and wind-gusting around 30 m.p.h. The wind itself was north-north-east, unusual for this kind of storm."

And, of course, there was thunder and lightning, in good stiff doses, on Tuesday morning. Mr. Lattin was delighted. "It adds to the excitement," he said.

MONTGOMERY TO VOTE
On High School Site. Selection of a site for a Montgomery Township High School, approval of a $12 million budget and selection of three school board candidates from a five-man slate will occupy Montgomery Township voters in the township's school election next Tuesday.

All voters will vote at the Burnt Hill Road School between 2 p.m. and 9 p.m.

The site for the new high school is a 74-acre tract adjoining the present school property on Burnt Hill Road between Back Brook and Sunset Road. The plot would accommodate both the high school and a future school.

Cost of the land is $2,400 per acre, for a total of $177,600. Present sewer facilities can be expanded to serve the location, school board members point out, and gas, water and hydrant protection are available. (See map, "Topics of the Town.")

The board's decision to buy this land was a unanimous one, chosen after board members visited nine sites and considered a total of 30.

Board members approve the site, formerly known as the Dill farm—because it is centrally located, removed from the alignments of both I-95 and I-76, as these are presently laid out, reasonably contained and realistically priced.

Budget Up. Of the $12 million blueprint for the budget, $999,187 must be raised by taxes. This is $205,935 more than last year.

This year's budget reflects Montgomery's desire to increase teachers' salaries. A new salary guide, plus the annual increase of $420 in the budget. Additional staff to take care of additional pupils, plus the fact that Montgomery must start a new ninth grade next fall to accommodate youngsters no longer accepted at Princeton High, will add $140,000 more.

Tuition at Princeton High, for Montgomery students still going there, will rise from $790 to $850 per pupil. Overall tuition, of course, will be down because 100 children will be in the new Montgomery ninth grade and not at Princeton High.

Physical education teacher for girls, a remedial reading teacher, a part-time speech therapist, a guidance counselor and expanded evening and summer library programs are among the new programs that will exceed the budget.

Increased elementary and secondary enrollments will call for a new bus route and the extension of others, for an additional $12,000 over last year. The state reimburses a municipality for 75% of the cost.

Candidates running for the three vacancies on the board are: Jack Cooper, Montgomery resident (two) and one-half years; graduate of Wagner College, theological degrees from Princeton Seminary and the University of Edinburgh; director, Center of Continuing Education, Princeton Seminary; three children in Montgomery schools. Favors expansion of enrichment programs.

Harry Dowling, incumbent school board member, Montgomery resident for five years; graduate of Fordham; director of customer accounts and relations with Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc.; member Montgomery Township Board of Health; former Planning Board advisory member; four children in Montgomery schools. Hopes for another term to continue work in helping the township's school system.

Jack Graskamp, Montgomery resident two and one-half years; graduate Andriest; manager of sales and market analysis; Don Jones, two children in Montgomery schools. Concerned with achieving a good high school curriculum; his training in economics, statistics.

Raymond Hunt, incumbent board member, Montgomery resident 15 years; graduate of Princeton High; partner in Hunt and Augustine, Inc.; Montgomery schools. Five children in experience working with architects and contractors as valuable in forthcoming building program.

Paul W. Ross, Montgomery resident three years; graduate of Princeton; earned degrees in electrical engineering; electrical engineer with RCA.

member of Advisory Committee for Montgomery Township High School on finance sub-committee; two pre-school children. Hopes, as board member, to insure excellence of education.

BIRTHS

MISFIVE NO

Trent Group Shills. Parents (or Youth has apparently jilted the Miss Fines' gym as a student lounge location in favor of the community (i.e., engineering) building on Witherspoon Street.

Thomas Hartmann, president of the group, told Miss Fines' S. Patterson informally that P. for Y. decided maybe it would cost more than the $100,000 they originally planned to convert Miss Fines' to tennis use.

Mayor Patterson said at his Tuesday press conference that P. for Y. hadn't said how much space it would like in the community building. Presumably no big dances would be held there.

ZWOYKIN HONORED

By Vladimir K. Zworykin, 103 Borty Road, received from President Lyndon B. Johnson on Monday the President's Medal.

Dr. Zworykin, honorary vice president of RCA, was one of 11 medalists honored in ceremonies at the White House. His citation read "for major contributions to the instrumentation of science, engineering and television and for his stimulation of the application of engineering to medicine."

He has pioneered in the diagnosis of disease by computer, and in 1929, registered his first patent for color television. He has been called "the architect of modern television."

The White House ceremonies were attended by Mrs. Zworykin; Mrs. Richard Lee, the Zworykin's daughter, and her own two daughters, and Mrs. Vera Polevitsky, niece of Mrs. Zworykin, who is visiting the family from Moscow.

After the presentation, the medalists joined the President and Mrs. Johnson in a reception followed by a luncheon.

FATHERS AND SONS RACE

In Model Car Derby. Almost 40 fathers and sons competing last week in the eighth Annual Pinewood Derby of Cub Scout Pack 68. The contest, a race of gravity powered model cars down an inclined plane, took place in the social hall of the Methodist church. Thomas Savore, 200 of 10 and Mrs. E. D. Savore, 21 Broadridge Drive, won first place while his brother, John, was second. Jonathan Sprang finished third, trailed by Larry Groves, in fourth. Fathers and sons made the cars during the last five weeks to rigid specifications. Pack 68's track, built by fathers eight years ago, is a slanting ramp more than 20 feet long. A committee of 10 fathers, headed by S. T. Kimbrough, conducted the event.

HOSPITAL TO APPEAR

Before Planning Board. An informal but public discussion will be held next Monday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall before the trustees of Princeton Hospital and members of the Township Planning Board.

The agenda: the hospital's plans for future expansion. The Planning Board would like to know ahead of time, hoping to avoid snags like last year's hospital parking problems.

The Board will also talk about the Open Space Commission's revised recommendations for that Matter Plan map and will examine the revised map and an up-to-date inventory of open space parcels.

In other business, the Board will hear Duffield Associates discuss informally a plan to subdivide 13.2 acres north-west of Stony Brook at the edge of Mercer Road, and will

PUCF PRESENTS AWARDS
Mrs. Schoch Named President. Highlight of Monday's annual meeting of the Princeton United Community Fund was the presentation of special awards and the naming of Mrs. Richard Schoch as president for 1967.

At the outset, Arthur N. Carlisle, 1966 campaign chairman, reported that $450,589 had been raised. The goal was $440,353. This year's attainment is an increase of $23,276 over 1965. It represents a per person average of $11.55, one of the highest in the nation. The successful campaign was the Fund's seventh in a row.

Outgoing Fund President Bernard Barenholtz presented the Gerard B. Lambert Community Service Award to Warren W. Wagner and Alan G. Frank, on behalf of the United Community Fund.

Mr. Wagner has served as past president of the Fund, past campaign chairman, is a founder and past president of the Hightstown Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Board of Directors of the Council of Community Services. Mr. Frank, a member of the PUCF board for five years, has served as campaign chairman. He is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce, has headed a major committee for the Princeton Hospital, and is vice-president of the Rotary Club.

On behalf of the Princeton area Council of Community Services, Raymond Bowers, president, presented the Countess fifth annual award to Mrs. Anita W. Vivian.

Mrs. Vivian was twice president of the Township Parent-Teachers Association, a member of the Citizens' Advisory Committee of the Board of Education, past president of the Mercer Girl Scout Council, board member of the Princeton Chapter of American Field Service, an officer and board member of the Council of Community Services and trustee and campaign leader for the United Fund.

In addition to naming Mrs. Schoch as president, the nominating committee, with Mr. Wagner as chairman, presented this year: Max D. Blumensfeld, administrative vice-president; Robert L. Weiss, budget vice-president; Theodore Davis, campaign vice-president.

Patterson commented, "So we must make allowances."

"We have no idea where we stand from the tax viewpoint," said Township Committee member William Wilson at Monday night's meeting. "But it will be considerably more costly to run the Township this year than last."

County Figures. A $15 million Mercer County budget is in the hopper, representing an increase of about $2.5 million. The new community college accounts for $470,000 of the increase, salary adjustments for $310,000, the county welfare budget for $300,000 more. The summer side of the picture shows the biggest surplus ever recorded in Mercer County—$504,191, or $904,000 more than last year's. In addition, Mercer has $58.8 million more in ratholes.

The surplus on top of the surplus comes from $147,925 additional money earned on investment; interest paid on funds which the county doesn't need right away and in-treasures in short-term Treasury certificates; $30,700 from selling a right-of-way across the Mountain View Golf Course for a six-lane, $5,216 returned by the County Welfare Board and the rest from miscellaneous refunds by various county departments.

REVERSAL FOR MRS. KENNEDY? Has Jackie lost her cool, as one person mentioned, as a result of her role in the controversy over the serialization of "Death of a President" in Look magazine, Ed Von Schmidt says she has lost some of his former respect. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think Mrs. Kennedy has gained or lost respect as a result of her role in the controversy over the serialization in Look of "Death of a President"?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

Leonard DiDonato, T-11 Timbers Drive, engineer: She hasn't lost any of my respect, but she's probably lost some people bring human. She has a responsibility to the family to make sure the book was accurate. From what I understand, the author had a legal responsibility to have the book approved by her before publication. As far as I'm concerned, he's the culprit in the case.

Mrs. Bruce Ecklund, 107 Moore Street, housewife: Well, I suppose I would say she's lost. She was on a pedestal and now she's shown she's only human. She was trying to be the whole Kennedy clan — to make more of Kennedy than he really was. He was a good man, but he wasn't a saint. I think all she did was create a real mess; it only brought more attention to the problem. I know how she felt and I can sympathize with her. She doesn't want anything to take away from her memory of him, but, after all, you have to use some common sense about these things, and it wasn't used here.

Mrs. William L. Bunting Jr., Cranbury, housewife: I don't think she's gained or lost respect — I think she's gotten a lot of publicity. I don't really think she objected to publicity but she has it regardless. I still respect her a great deal; I always have.

Mrs. P. Mackay Sturges, New York City, housewife: I think she's lost. Why? I think of all the terrific adverse publicity she's gotten. Her original mistake was the said too much in the beginning. She's regretted it and I don't blame her.

Dr. G. W. Esty, Ober Road, physician — educator: My opinion has not changed. I've always felt — I happen to be a physician — that she was slightly under normal mental; that she's been protected all these years by a family kind of aristocratic hierarchy. Therefore, this doesn't come as any surprise. What has happened has confirmed my original impression that she didn't have too much to go on in the first place.

new rule. I remember reading somewhere that the statue has come off the pedestal. I agree with that. But I don't blame her. She's young.

Miss Noreen Spillane, 30 Westcott Road, mother's helper: I personally don't think she's gained or lost. I feel she had a right to privacy. If she had her privacy being violated, she had a right to do what she did.

Miss Linda Reed, Cranbury, secretary for Kemper and Tregor, Charlton, Street: I think she's gained respect because people don't understand what really happened, and this way they'll know what she has been through and why she acted as she did. The book will help explain how I feel.

M. V. Bracco, 221-B Marshall Street, graduate student, aerospace engineer: To me, it hinges on the degree of personal involvement of the passages she didn't want to be published. If those passages were not really important, then she acted silly. She should have been above this. On the other hand, we don't know what they wrote. If they were very personal or untruthful, she had a right to protect herself. In other words, I don't like to judge if I don't know.

Mrs. Anita Smith, 238 Nassau Street, employee at admin-sion office, Princeton University: At first, I thought she had suffered a loss of respect. But then again I thought maybe it wasn't so much her trying to wield her influence as it was a case of whether it would hurt Bobby. I think the whole thing was probably a collaboration with Bobby but she's gotten most of the publicity. I think she did it to protect him. But in my opinion I think this is also true. It sounds as though Manchester had shown copies of the manuscript and it was accepted and the Kennedy's seemed to go back on it. This is when I felt she had lost some respect.

Miss Maria Bonafede, Trenton, secretary, Woodrow Wilson Foundation: No, I don't think she's lost respect. It's something she wanted to do and I give her a lot of credit for coming right out and doing it. I don't think there is anything she'd do to make me lose respect for her.

Don LaFare, Witherspoon Hall, University freshman: No, I don't think I've lost any respect for her as a result of all this. My impression of the whole deal is the family is trying a major fuss to protect Mrs. Kennedy. She hired this guy. He ought to write what they want written in the most accurate way.

Miss Barbara Rose, 644 Prentiss Brook Road, employee,

Princeton University, aerospace and mechanical sciences: No, she's gained respect in my estimation. Certainly, if I were in her position, I would keep extremely personal parts out of it as much as possible. It's difficult enough as it is — always being in the limelight. There are some things which are sacred which I imagine were pretty much as she must have felt. I respect her. I think she's done a great job through the whole thing. . . . through this death and after.

Mrs. Loraine Trent, Belle Mead, secretary, N.J. Bankers' Association: I don't think she has lost respect. . . . definitely! I believe she has a right to keep some things private regardless of what.

Edward Von Schmidt, Route 1, clerk, Tuxer Auto Store, Witherspoon Street: In my opinion she's sort of lost respect. Everyone admired her and now it seems to me she doesn't want the people to really know about what went on. I think it's a good idea to have a look, the people want to know.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I was deeply gratified to find myself named of the Week last week. Regarding our investigation of the dilution of the sum the report that appeared initially in the New York Times was on the whole reasonably accurate, but unfortunately it did not carry my acknowledgments that the measurement was the result of collaboration with Professor H. Mark Goldenberg of our department.

Furthermore, in my talk had noted that initially, during the design and construction of the apparatus, Professor H. Hill had also been a collaborator. Professor Hill is now with Wesleyan University in Connecticut. We also want to acknowledge the help of several of our graduate students, Paul Henry, Robert Stokes, Karl Davis, and Edward MacDonald.

Concerning the observation, the nature of the conclusion needs some clarification. The observations do not throw any light on Einstein's relativity, nor on relativistic principles in general, but only on Einstein's very specific theory of gravitation, "General Relativity." If the presently tentative conclusion is applied, probably the required modification of the formal theory may be great, but the modification of the philosophical interpretation of the theory may be more complete. For the present the conclusion is tentative only. In addition to our observations which can be questioned, it depends upon the astronomer's interpretation of the observation of Mercury. But should be re-examined.

ROBERT H. DICKE
321 Prospect Avenue

Viet Nam Position Explored.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
On Saturday, January 28, a few minutes before 1 p.m., when the "Silent Vigil for Peace in Viet Nam" was about to end at Palmer Square, a young woman approached me in a hostile manner and asked what good it was standing out in the cold—if we wanted to help the people of Viet Nam, why weren't we railing around town collecting clothes for them.

There are two answers to this question. One is that many organizations connected with the peace movement are trying to do what they can to repair the damage already inflicted on civilian Viet Nam, both North and South. Quakers and others (including the Fellowship of Reconciliation) have been struggling for some time to get through the forest of government restrictions to send supplies to suffering people in all parts of Viet Nam.

You can't just go around collecting clothes and then send them over—it's not that simple. Anyone interested in the difficulties of sending aid, especially to our "enemies," should write The Quaker Action Group, 20 South 12th St., Philadelphia, Pa. 19107, or the Fellowship of Reconciliation, Box 271, Nyack, N. Y. 10959.

The other answer to the young woman's question—what good is it to stand out in the cold—is that we hate the thought that Americans are bombing the Vietnamese with one hand and trying to repair the damage with the other. Those taking part in the vigil hope persons willing to change in some small measure the attitude of this country so that the bombing will have to be stopped, along with the tilting and maiming of civilians, the defoliation of the countryside and all the attendant horrors that can be laid at the door of our government.

Another young woman asked us that Saturday why a big sign stating our position wouldn't do just as well. We said we were quite sure that if you are willing to stand in public in testimony of what you believe, it makes a far greater impression than any impersonal sign could make. Incidentally, these vigils are being held all over the country—in California, Florida, Minnesota, Colorado, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. New Jersey has another in Madison—and besides the one at Palmer Square on Saturdays there is one on Wednesdays organized by Princeton students held on Prospect Street.

School Problems Neglected.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
In his letter of last week, Mailbox, February 21, Mr. Leon Sutton seems to argue that the relatively undisciplined salaries paid to our teachers is really a sign of the excellence of our schools.

Does Mr. Sutton really believe that the pay of a beginning teacher is really the scarier and elusive prima donna of the academic scene—reflects life as it is in the world that the places he cites will pay a boy a million dollars in a dime per cent to get somebody into the physics classroom, but it is hardly surprising that the overall salary scales in these places rate D and C on the AATP reports while A's are recorded to Harvard, Yale, Princeton, and MIT and the other schools our kids are lining up to get into.

Teachers are like anyone else. They want ideal working conditions and good salaries, and each individual works out his own balance between the two. For example, I believe married women teachers will forego much in the way of salary to work in their own communities, which may explain the Upper Merion case.

But the discussion of what teachers should accept or have accepted in the past becomes chaotic in a community where municipal employees have shown new determination, even militancy, in demanding and getting wage increases and which is only a few short miles from the volcanic eruptions at Woodbridge. It does not take much awareness to realize that we are living in a world where everything constantly costs more.

This is not a political decision but rather an economic fact, and the politicians who have been elected to office on a platform of economy, albeit some of them may have ended up raising taxes and expending like anybody else (though California may prove to be an exception). It is now a fact of life that the amount we decide to pay our municipal employees is not—Continued on Next Page.

Farle Need Zip Codes

John L. Dilworth, Princeton, Pa., has announced that a change in parcel post rates and sending means that the cost of mailing a package is now being coded.

"The parcel post rate for your package is now based on its Zip code," he explains. "You can help speed your parcel by being in the Zip code area in its address. Zip code directories are available for your convenience in the lobby of the Post Office."

necessarily what they will accept.

The point I am trying to make is that the community has not thought deeply about our school system for a long time. Our school budget is huge and rising rapidly, and our teachers are unhappy about their share. This is not only a local issue but a national problem, and if a small community like ours contains so many highly educated and highly successful people cannot devise appropriate methods to deal with it, things are indeed in a bad way.

I have some questions but not the answers. Is class size necessary? Ideal at about 25. Should not some classes be larger and some smaller? Are our tenure arrangements working in the best interest of the system?

Could we make more use of school aides and part-time teachers? Aside from a hazy nostalgia, is there any reason we should not begin to experiment with the teaching of basic facts with the aid of the talking typewriter and other programmed equipment, and so free teaching time for group projects and discussion and personalized teaching?

It may be time to raise again the subject of middle cost housing for our civil servants in recognition of the fact that we do not pay them enough to live in the community they serve.

Whether we like it or not, the 20th century is upon us. If we do not start thinking now about the challenge dramatized by the teachers of Woodbridge, I am afraid it may deal roughly with us.

Interpretations Clarified.

To the Editor of Town Topics: By the time this letter is printed the School Board Election will be history but for the record I feel it important to clarify two interpretations printed in last week's TOWN TOPICS of statements which I recently made.

The first, contained in "Topics of the Town," classified me as possibly an "economy" candidate based on my statement, "excellence of education within a cost structure we are able to support." I prefer to think of myself as a responsible candidate, aware that our desires are on only one side of the scale and that bill is always on the other.

This brings us to Mr. Sonnenschein's letter in Mailbox. Mr. Sonnenschein misquotes me as proposing that "all and any new program in the Princeton Regional School System could be financed with Federal Government Funds."

What I did and do propose is that a thorough investigation be made of all available Government aid to Education which might be utilized in reducing the cost to the Princeton taxpayer of providing the educational facilities Princeton demands. I hope the spectre of government financial aid does not become so frightening to Mr. Sonnenschein that he advocates returning the $482,000 obtained from such sources to finance our 1960-1961 budget.

MUSIC In Princeton

CLEVELANDERS DUE BACK
With Mozart, etc. The Mozart "Jupiter" Symphony, William Walton's "Variations on a Theme by Hindemith" and Schumann's "Rhenish" Symphony will be performed by the Cleveland Orchestra under George Solti next Tuesday at 8:30 in McCarter.

Since his appointment as conductor of the orchestra in 1946, Mr. Solti has increased its personnel steadily until it now numbers 105, among them many of the best orchestral musicians in the United States. The woodwind and brass choirs have been enlarged, and the strings have been increased to the correct proportions for ideal tonal balance.

The concert, part of Series 1 of the Princeton University Concert series, is sold out by subscription but standing room tickets are available.

LOVIN' LOVIN'
Spontaneous. The four members of the brimmin' lovin' sponfool are led by John Sebastian, age 21, who plays guitar, harmonica and auto-harp.

The folk-rock group will appear in Dillon Gym on Saturday, March 4, at 8 p.m. in connection with the University's Junior Prom weekend, but non-Prommers may go, too. Tickets are now on sale at the McCarter Theatre box office.

Besides John Sebastian, age 21, there are Zali Yanovsky, age 20, lead guitarist; Steve Boone, electric bass and lead fiddle; drums. You know the current Spontaneous hit record Appearing with Mr. Waters are Otis Spann, piano and vocal; James Cotton, amplified harmonica; James Madison, lead guitar; Little Lee, tenor saxophone; Jimmie Lee Morris, bass; and S. P. Larrie, drums.

Tickets, priced at $3 and $2.50, can be purchased at the Princeton University Store, McCarter Theatre. Tickets will also be available at Alexander Hall Friday night.

FOLK MUSIC FRIDAY
At Stuart County Day. The first in a series of folk music entertainment will be held Friday evening from 8 to 11 in the auditorium of Stuart County Day School. The series is being sponsored by the student body for the benefit of the school's gymnasium fund.

Featured will be three popular school groups. They are "Nemo Ltd." from Stuart, "The Marrowbone Creek Vaudeville Singers" from Princeton High School; and "The Townsfolk" from DeBorah Prep School.

Admission will be $1. Refreshments will be available.

MANUSCRIPT RECEIVED
From Igor Stravinsky, Igor Stravinsky has presented the original manuscript of his most recent composition, "Requiem Canticles" to Princeton University. The work was premiered at Princeton on October 8, 1966, at a special concert conducted by the 65-year-old composer and an associate. "Requiem Canticles" is a setting of passages from the Latin requiem, scored for orchestra, chorus and four solo voices. It was commissioned by Princeton University from a contribution of special funds and dedicated to the late Helen Buchanan Seeger, a major benefactor of the University.

The 46-page manuscript, in the composer's clear, precise hand, has been placed on exhibit in the Firestone Memorial Library as part of the display, "An Historical Survey of Music in the Western World."

RUSSIAN CONCERT SET
As Benefit Performance. The Princeton University Russian Band and the Connecticut College Russian Chorus will present a joint concert Saturday at 8 in 40 McCoin Hall on the Princeton campus. Half of the proceeds and all the contributions from patrons will be given to the Tolstoy Foundation, an organization devoted to resettling Russian refugees.

The other half of the proceeds is earmarked for the Shawnee Leadership Institute, a United Nations-connected international camp and seminar. Admission will be $2. Folk and liturgical music will be stressed.

The concert was organized by the Tolstoy Benefit Committee, a group of Princeton undergraduates headed by Paul Roditsky IV. It is hoped that the event will be the first annual concert dedicated to Countess Tolstoy, founder of the Tolstoy Foundation.

He will explain how to distinguish between "ball lighting" and other phenomena. Dr. Uman is a scientist at the Westinghouse Research and Development Center at Pittsburgh.

Pussycats go where tigers fear to tread.

Fancy cars with ferocious names are apt to do some unferocious things in snow.

Like gel stuck.
Then there are the Pussycats the Volkswagen Karmann Ghia.
It's a little less ferocious, a little more domesticated.

For example, it can spend an evening out in temperatures that reach 20 below and yet zip you through six inches of snow come morning.

That's because the Ghia engine doesn't need water or antifreeze. It's cooled by air. And located in the rear to give the rear wheels much better traction.

Its bottom is fully sealed. So the outside takes a beating from bad weather instead of the inside. Its front brakes are disc (the kind that won't fade). And although it's not as powerful as a roaring tiger or as speedy as a wild horse, at least it knows how to find its way back home.

ART In Princeton

THE HUNTER AS ARTIST

Exkimo as Gallery 100 there has been a fairly recent enthusiasm over the art of the Eskimo throughout Canada and the United States. In Princeton, examples have appeared in art festivals and book exhibits during the past decade, to the delight of many.

The marketing of this relatively new art form, and the Eastern Canadian Eskimo arts and crafts in particular, was started some sixteen years ago when James Houston, an artist representing the Canadian Handcraft Guild, was sent to Baffin Island. His job was to improve the economy of the region by encouraging the Eskimos to develop and use their artistic talents. By 1919 a Baffin Cooperative was in full operation with production of arts and crafts.

Hunter-artists. The sculptures and graphics exhibited at Gallery 100 until February, make up a show which demands of the viewer little effort save that of enjoyment. The art of the Eskimo is bold and warm, engagingly natural and never obscure.

The subjects come directly from the rugged life of the people lived inextricably with nature. Art in any form comes second to their original struggle for existence. If the weather is possible, the hunt for food is vital. If the weather is really bad, then hunter-torments arise. The most talented can translate into their work their own intuitive sense of balance and concentration, their keen knowledge of anatomy and posture of man or prey.

Eskimo graphic arts have grown out of sculptural art which we too, have known first figures and forms carved in natural attitudes out of the smooth textured soapstone. There are a few of these fine arts and animals in this show: a delightful seal rolling over on his back, clumsy playful bears, a snarling walrus, the hunter skinning his seal or driving his team.

In the stone-cut prints there is greater descriptive boldness. Sometimes one sees a primitive rendering of the hunt with stiff figures and symbols, allusions to the spirit world, apparitions, or a complicated scene of "Happy Family." Often a definite rhythm and pattern singles out the most interesting pieces. For example "Fish in a Pool," one of the more fascinating compositions, is a rhythmic tangle of flashing, speckled fish which, for some reason, have individual and happy expressions. "Circle of Birds," a stencil print, is full of joyful light and "Walrus at Play," though very flat and "cut-out," makes you laugh aloud.

To us, the art of these Eskimos reveals character, philosophy and a whole way of life. To them, as Mr. Houston comments, both graphics and stone carving "express and reaffirm the importance of their traditional life."

STEEFAN MARTIN SHOWS
At Nassau Club, Stefan Martin, whose work is at the Nassau Club this month, is the son of the muralist and graphic artist, Davis Stone Martin. He received his practical training in wood engraving at the (Sander) Wood Engraving Co. in Chicago while studying painting at the Chicago Art Institute. Now living in Roswell, N.J. he is well established as a wood engraver and painter, and certainly his work needs no introduction in Princeton.

It is possible to trace a development from the illustrational black and white engravings towards the broader, abstract forms in the paintings. In the first medium, "The Scavore Bush" and "Brussels Sprouts" are examples with perfect balance in design, clear and decorative in feeling. "Boy in Tree" adds a deeper personal connotation. In "Tree Trunk," Martin becomes bolder in technique and movement, and in "Confinement" he goes farther by treating very broadly his figures actuating in space... too little space. In his paintings he breaks into his broadest terms while combining abstract forms, often in moody dark tones, occasionally in clear color. Of all the exhibits, the engraving "The Trees," which we know well, still impresses us as the very best of Stefan Martin's strong and moving descriptive style.

We had 3,800 squirrel bites last year

3,800 of our furry friends took their frustration on our telephone cables. They don't eat the wire inside. They just seem to like to sharpen their teeth on the lead sheathing around the cable.

You'd probably never know if a squirrel had bitten a cable carrying your conversation. We'd know. Our equipment is sensitive enough to pinpoint a bite, and we can usually repair it before any trouble develops.

If the squirrel bites got bad in one particular area (sometimes we think they're organized), we do them a favor. We put up a special wire above the cable. The squirrels bite the wire—leave the cable alone—and everybody's happy.

Of course, in years to come, the squirrel problem will lessen. We're buying more and more of our cable. First of all, it looks nicer—no telephone poles. But most important, it means better telephone service for you. Cable that's batted isn't affected by squirrels... or storms, either.

Any ideas about gophers?

TIGERS A ROAD TEAM
Play better away from home. If it weren't for the communications media, ranging from the printed word to radio and television, Princeton basketball fans would have no reason to believe that their team is fifth ranked in the nation.

Of the 17 games the Tigers have won, only seven have been at home—a schedule quirk for which they are hardly responsible. But during those seven, they have rarely played more than one good game and on at least two occasions—namely against Yale and Harvard—they have come close to being blown out by opponents which have earned their potential.

It is a puzzling but indisputable phenomenon that they get more support from fans away from home—many of them with no Princeton affiliation whatsoever—than they do in Dillon Gym. The night they traveled Louisville at the Palatka in the Quaker City final thousands of spectators who had probably never seen the Princeton campus adopted the Tigers as their sentimental favorites—so much so that they even booed visiting Louisville when it accepted the winner's trophies after the game.

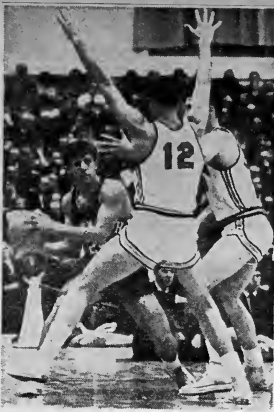

At New Brunswick last week, the 600 Princeton rooters made more noise than 8,000 onlookers had here at the Harvard game Saturday night—one in which Princeton trailed at the half and might have lost right down to the wire. In fact, so quiet was the crowd watching that game that one would have thought the silence was honoring a solo performance by the world's greatest violinist rather than one of the nation's best college basketball teams intent on winning its conference title.

Note Is Stimulating. Now the Tigers will go to New Haven Friday, where a SRO crowd will anticipate a second performance of Yale's second-half superiority in Dillon Gym last month, and later to Ithaca, where Cornell's second-place entry thinks it can upset the front-runners. The racket will be at crescendo pitch, but even though 90% of it will be directed against the favored Princeton, they will feel more at home in sound than in silence.

When the team returned from upsetting second-ranked North Carolina before 7,000 Tar Heel fans in Chapel Hill, Bill Stricker, Princeton's Director of Sports Information, remarked to Joe Heiser on the volume of noise directed against the visiting Princetonsians. "We prefer it that way," Heiser replied, "it's the silent crowds that get on our nerves."

Yale, no better than 8-6 on the season, thinks it can upset the Tigers Friday because of its ability to outplay and outscore them in the second half of the game here on January 7. Trailing 48-30 at the intermission, the Elis hit for 45 points in the final 20 minutes to 28 for the home team, eventually losing by only 77.

Four members of the Blue Rick Johnson, Ed Goldstone, Rick Stoner and Howie Dale

IT WAS LIKE THIS ALL EVENING: Joe Heiser (21) and Ed Hummer play two-on-one at Dartmouth's Bob Sturges and the other Indians play keep-away from Princeton. In second half, game went nearly 14 minutes before the freeing visitors took first shot. Tigers won the slow-down, 59 to 16. TOWN TOPICS Photo by George Peterson.

are averaging in double figures, and while they lack Princeton's height, they are going on the theory that they can out-rebound and outlast the Tigers again. If there is any doubt over such a possibility, it is worth remembering that a Harvard team which has lost eight in a row did so for a good portion of the game here Saturday.

After New Haven, it's Brown at Providence on Saturday. At 7-10 on the year, the Bruins have just enough ability to spend the Tigers if they go into the game after being beaten by Yale. Chances are against that, however: this is a Princeton team that rises to the occasion and plays its best away from home.

From 236 points to 96. Having averaged 103 points against shots they could make, month on their courts three weeks earlier, it seemed wholly unlikely that Princeton would not score at least 80 to 90 against each of these opponents in Dillon Gym. But Dartmouth took charge of that possibility Friday (story, page 28) and when the Tigers could not take charge of Harvard the next night, the respective finals were 30 to 16 and 60 to 59.

Inability to come up with the offensive rebound, thus drastically curtailing the number of shots they could make, combined with a surprisingly hot shooting hand displayed by Harvard, kept Princeton in hot water throughout the latter game. The Crimson, which has not won since the turn of the year, left the court at half time with a 23-28 advantage—after having trailed at the intermission when the teams met at Cambridge, 50 to 19.

Fortunately for the Orange and Black, it has had the ability to open the scoring fastest when needed in 17 of its games this year, and in the first nine minutes of the second half, it poured in 23 points while holding the Crimson to 9. The margin was sufficient to withstand another downturn in the culture of Princeton's play. Harvard coming to within five in the closing minutes but succumbing when Heiser shook loose for a layup and Chris Thomforde converted four straight free throws.

Harvard shot 51%, far above its average in road games, while the Tigers dropped below their season's average of 52, to 49%. Heiser led the scoring with 17, followed by Thomforde and John Har-

A Yale hockey team that has beaten Princeton twice this season in non-league games will play in Baker Risk Saturday at 2. Clarkson, which the Tigers last defeated before most members of the current team were in kindergarten, will be here next Wednesday. The last Princeton victory in this series was in 1953.

A pair of 5-4 games marked last week's action, the Orange and Black getting an even break and winning the one that sent it into a first-place tie in the Ivy standings when it took the ice for this Wednesday's game against Cornell. Despite the fact that two of the Clamhous have been over-laplace Dartmouth, such a ranking even in early February is extremely pleasurable to the faithful Risk Bats.

Both games against Cornell and Dartmouth were come-from-behind affairs, save that in the contest at Hamilton, the Tigers didn't quite make it. A 4-0 defeat was more than

Basketball Has No Anti-Freeze Solution

In football, if you stall for three downs, you've got to punt. In hockey, if you try to play keep away, the other guys will take it into your own half and come up with the puck. In baseball, if the pitcher stalls, the umpire can order him to throw, and if the delaying tactics are sufficiently flagrant, the umpire can forfeit the game.

No such luck when a team decides to freeze in basketball, as Dartmouth did Friday night in Dillon Gym. Since 1,000 fans were alternately frustrated and bored, the rules only require a player to pass or dribble when closely guarded, and not to hold the ball himself for more than 30 seconds when not guarded.

There is no sound reason for believing that the colleges will ever come up with a solution for protecting the slim lead requirement the pros have for a shot to be taken. Too many of them have won an extremely well-played game by a score such as 80 to 78 — after protecting the slim lead with a beautifully executed 45-second freeze.

So it appears likely that Dartmouth, which pined Princeton's 74-point margin at Hanover to 14 here, and Southern California, which forced UCLA and Lew Alcindor into overtime before losing, will continue to stall and others will follow suit when they consider themselves badly over-matched. Dave Gavitt, the Indians' young coach, said immediately after the game that he'd do it again if the same relative difference exists when he next plays Princeton. It will, that's for sure.

For the record, it was 16-8 at the half, Princeton making four field goals and eight fouls and Dartmouth two and four. When the Green controlled the tap to start the final period, it took the Tigers almost eight minutes to gain possession and when they did, Gary Walters was fouled immediately to prevent a Princeton field goal. Walters converted, but the first shot from the floor did not come until 13:50, when Gunnar Malm of the Green threw one up and missed.

Eventually Dartmouth went "the good show" strategy that has worked loudly when it made only five of 19 for 26%. The Tigers hit 6 of 11 for 55% and made 18 of 23 free throws. The individual scoring: Ed Hammer 15-5; Joe Heiser 1-5; John Harlow 3-5; Gary Walters 1-3-5; and Chris Thorndore 0-5-5. It was a 30-16 final.

If nothing else, Gavitt got himself headlines across the nation that the game would otherwise never have made. Best quip was credited to the Associated Press, whose lead declared:

"If the Indians at Little Big Horn had attacked the way Dartmouth's basketball team did tonight, General Custer might be alive today."

They could handle the home team hanging on for the victory. Two of the losers' goals went to senior Charlie Mac-william.

Dartmouth had a 4-3 lead as late as 15:44 of the third period when Captain George Gladman brought the Tigers down with a slap shot. In the final 30 seconds, Princeton drew a penalty and Coach Edie Jewell of the Green pulled his goalie to get a 6-4 advantage in shots.

The strategy backfired on an ensuing face-off in the Princeton zone. John Ritchie controlled the puck, passing to Terry Peterman, who fired the rubber across two blue lines into the empty cage. The goal, recorded at 19:30, gave Peterman the hat trick.

Brooding Yale will be something else again, the Elis holding a 7-6 overtime and a 2-2 triumph over the Tigers scored in December. Ten-five on the season when the week began, they are paced by high-scoring Jack Morrison, who is averaging better than 2.5 points a game. The Bulldogs occasionally have defensive problems, but scored one of the most noteworthy triumphs in their hockey history when they defeated Cornell at Yale in a 4-3 overtime donkey-hoek early in January.

HOVE FINALE FRIDAY
For PHIS Quarter, Friday evening's contest with Bridgewater-Britain will mark the final home appearance this season of the Princeton High School basketball team. Game time is 8 p.m.

Two contests remain after Bridgewater. Tuesday afternoon the Little Tigers will be at Peddie and next Friday, when they will end the season at Hamilton.

It would be refreshing if PHIS were to finish with a string of victories. So far it has failed to win two in a row and is the owner of a dismal 6-12 log. However, its chances of going out a winner are slim indeed.

Bridgewater — Raritan had little trouble last year with the Blue and White, which was a stronger team than this year's version, and the Golden Falcons are reported to have more potent this winter. Peddie is chipping up its prep school opposition, while Hamilton, still supposed to have too many runs for PHIS. The Hornets defeated PHIS last month, 68-47.

Steinert Wins, 67-52, Friday evening, the visiting Spartans of Princeton High School repeated their mastery of PHIS, defeating coach Tony Bor-yer's team, 67-52.

The visitors guarded a 5-0 lead and never trailed, although PHIS almost tied the score in the first half. The closer it came was at the end of the half when Steinert took a less-than 33-31 lead into the lockerroom.

PHIS lost the game in the third quarter when Don Hess, team Spartans' surest player, opened up. He had been held to eight points in the first half. In the period, Hess sparked Steinert to a 15-7 margin. Hess, by the way, needs only 46 points to reach the 1,000 mark in his career.

Volz Gleams, Rich Volz created a number of break-out opportunities for his teammates and his shooting in the second half kept the game from becoming a runaway. Eight of his 17 points—six for PHIS—came in the final stanza. In the third period, he contributed five of his team's total of seven.

Marty Hines was hot in the second period when he tallied eight of his 10 points. Tom Wood was the third Little Tiger to reach double figures. He contributed 14, half of them in the first period. In addition, he matched Hess in rebounds, 16 each, but Hess — claimed scoring honors for the game with 29.

Poor performances in two areas by the Little Tigers hurt them more than anything Steinert did. From the foul line they managed to convert just eight of 20, while the visitors were sinking 19 charity tosses. In contrast, from the floor the losers were a respectable 41%.

Even more crippling was their rebounding in the second half. In the last two periods, the Little Tigers hauled down two offensive rebounds. Every time they shot, Steinert ended up with the ball—hardly the formula for winning basketball.

KENT BLANKED 3-0
By PDS Skaters, Princeton Day School's two-day hockey trip to New England over the weekend was only half complete.

Friday's scheduled contest with Toft School was canceled because the New England squad was suffering from an outbreak of mumps. Coach Harry Rulon-Miller reported that the Day School physician advised him to "stay clear."

Saturday's game with Kent School ended in a 3-0 decision in favor of the Blue and White of PDS. As in all PDS games this season, with the exception of two meetings with PHS, the contest was with the Kent junior varsity squad. Scoring for PDS were Evan Donaldson, John Claghorn and Donald "Deeks" Jung. Donaldson and Claghorn are juniors, Young a sophomore. Rulon-Miller reported the aspect of the game that remained with him the most was the "tremendous hustle" displayed on the ice by Donaldson.

"For the most part, we pretty much controlled the game," Rulon-Miller said. He added that Kent's goalie played an outstanding game and prevented the score from going higher.

In turn, PDS' freshman goalie, Chris Reese, turned in a steady job. Rulon-Miller reported that at one point in the second period, a Kent player came in alone on Reese and a second shot quickly followed. "Chris kept them both out and it was important at the time because we were ahead only 1-0."

The Blue and White entertained the Lawrenceville javis team next. The game will be played at the new PDS rink on Friday, starting at 4.

CRANFORD HERE FRIDAY
Against PHS Skaters, The Cranford Hockey Club will test the Princeton High School hockey team Friday evening at 7 at the Princeton Day School rink. Next Wednesday, Montclair High School will clash with the Little Tigers in a 5:30 meeting.

By posting an 8-5 victory last Wednesday over Livingston High School at the PDS rink, the Little Tigers evened their record to 5-5. However, they lost a pair over the weekend to the Ridgewood All-Stars and Wissahickon.

Cranford is tough — perhaps too tough — which means that Coach Cook's sextet will have to sweep its remaining four if it hopes to have a winning season. Three of those four — PDS, Montclair and Summit — the Little Tigers have already mastered this winter so the chances are good that they may pull it off.

In its most recent outing, PHS dropped a 5-2 decision to Wissahickon. Cook reported his players were tired and showed the effects of playing a 55-minute overtime game the night before.

"We played even for a while but Wissahickon passed better than we did and a better job," Paul Rice scored the Blue and White's first goal. Then, with three minutes remaining, freshman Rich Favara scored his team's second score.

Favara skated with a third line, composed of John Mueller and another freshman, Getting Blown. "That third line looked very impressive," commented Cook. "Mueller keeps getting better all the time."

Loss in Overtime. Friday night PHS lost, 3-2, to the Ridgewood All-Stars at the PDS rink. After the end of the 45-minute regulation time, the score was tied, 2-2. Then with three seconds remaining in the 10-minute overtime, Ridgewood beat goalie Paul DeGracia to win.

Paul Rice scored both PHS goals in the second period ahead in the second period but the All-Stars tied it in the third.

"It was a pretty even game," said Cook. "Their goalie was very good; he made a lot of spectacular saves."

"Generally, our boys played well. We checked well but we just didn't finish off plays. We were getting the puck into the zone and we had more chances to score than they but their goalie was equal to it every time."

Last week, PHS slated to a 6-1 lead over Livingston and then got careless before winning, 8-1. Harry Somers tallied three times, John Rice scored a pair, and Steve Haisington, Bobby Linder and Paul Rice.

The Hun School basketball team will entertain Perkiomen Saturday at 2:45 and Bryn Alyn at 3:15 on Tuesday in two Penn-Jersey League contests. Both will be held at the Princeton Seminary gym.

After Bryn Alyn, only a February 22 meeting with George School remains before Hun ends its league competition this year. With a 3-2 mark, the Red and Black is out of the running but will have a say in the final standings.

In its last start, the Johnny Huns were defeated for the second time this season by the league-leading Moorestown. The score was 64-54. "We played well in parts but we weren't consistent," said coach Dave Leske.

Hun lost the game on the foul line, where it was outscored by the home team Quaker, 14-4. Frank Hagston had nine of those 14 free throws, collecting seven in the final period. From the floor the teams were even with 23 baskets apiece.

As in previous games, Hun was led by Don Silverman, who had 18 points and 23 rebounds and by Mike Maguire, who contributed 15. Silverman is a sophomore, which bodes well for next year. In fact, none of the Hun starters is a senior.

Moorestown jumped out to a 21-12 lead in the first period, but Hun fought back to within 20, 43-41, at the start of the final quarter. However, Hagston, who finished with a game high 25 points, was too efficient on the foul line for Dyname Room, Thomas A. Edison's Pearl Street Station, world's first central station for generating and distributing electricity.

Our first venture into the nuclear age is exciting to us... and important to our customers. When completed in 1971 (at an estimated cost of $125 million) our Burlington Nuclear Generating Station will be as clean, as safe, as economical and as dependable as any source of electric power that the world has known.

But everything that Public Service and other electric utilities do today is only an improvement on the original; the first central station for generating and distributing electricity. Built in 1882, this was the forerunner of just about every comfort and convenience you now enjoy. The man behind it, of course, was Thomas A. Edison. It almost had to be Edison because only a man with his genius, his dreams, his energy could invent and put into operation the first system of electric power generation and distribution.

February 11 is the birthday of Thomas A. Edison. It is fitting that the week of his birth, February 5-11, be designated National Electrical Week to pay tribute to this man who has given us the twentieth century.

and board for the year 1967-68, it was announced this week by Ricardo A. Medina, Financial Vice-President and Treasurer of the University. The new annual board rate will be $800 for a 21-month period, an increase of $40 for undergraduates and one of $25 for graduates. There is also an increase of $50 in the annual rental of undergraduate dormitory rooms to $470.

The combined costs of tuition and other fees, including medical, insurance, and the use of the library, laboratories and infirmary, will remain at $1,950.

"In view of the fact that tuition meets only one-half of the cost of each student's education at Princeton," Mr. Medina said, "the University must strive to operate its dormitories and dining halls on a break-even basis."

Mr. Medina pointed out that college's board rate is an accurate barometer of rising living costs. Princeton's board has climbed from $300 before World War II to $500 in 1960 and to its present level of $800.

Another factor is the Department of Food Services' dominant role in the University's student employment program. Over 500 undergraduates receive $240,000 in wages from Food Services.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO MEET
To Hear Book Reviews, Mary S. Geston whose lecture last year was well received by the Woman's Club of Princeton will give a second program next Thursday by popular request. Her talk at 1:30 at the Shrine Club will feature reviews of a number of current books.

Miss Geston boasts a varied background as actress, teacher, writer, and lecturer. In addition to traveling all over the world, she has also written and book reviewer on radio.

The Woman's Club has welcomed the following new members: Russell M. Bettes, Mrs. John H. Beyer, Mrs. Arthur M. Ryers, Mrs. William Owens, Mrs. Charles F. Mages, Jr., T. Tracy Edginger, Mrs. A. T. David, Mrs. Dale Hiestand, Mrs. Elmer Hienrichsen, Mrs. William A. Geoghan, Mrs. James Dick Schwartz, Mrs. Theodore Kirk Phelps, Mrs. F. H. Nicol, Mrs. Malcolm J. Closterman, Mrs. Charles K. LUNCHEON ANNOUNCED

By Vassar Club. The Vassar Club of Central New Jersey will hold its annual mid-winter luncheon next Wednesday at the Princeton Inn.

Clyde C. Griffen, Dean of Freshmen and Assistant Professor of History at Vassar College, will be the speaker. In addition to current campus topics, Mr. Griffen will discuss the Yale-Vassar coordinate college study.

Luncheon will begin at 12 with cocktails in one of the private dining rooms in the Inn. All alumnae in the Princeton-Trenton area wishing to make reservations should telephone Mrs. Richard Baker at 924-3532 before Tuesday.

NEW CUB PACK TO MEET

New Dutch Neck, West Windsor. The new Cub Pack 40 will hold its first meeting Friday in the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church at 7:30. Parents of the potential scouts are invited to attend.

Pack 40 is sponsored by the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church. Instrumental in the pack's formation have been the effort and time devoted by Glenn Fowler, Wallace Road, Princeton Junction. He is Jerry Uhl, cubmaster; Morton Levine, committee chairman; Stanley Johnson, treasurer; Arceneuse secretary; and Paul Koether, public relations.

300 YEARS OF HOUSES

"Shelter" at Museum. Houses and shelters, including a display called "300 Years of Houses in Princeton," will be the next offering at the Princeton Junior Museum in Borough Hill. Young members of the Museum will carry their displays, models and drawings up to the third floor museum rooms this Saturday. Here the exhibits will join a group of loan items from the Brooklyn Children's Museum, the New Jersey State Museum and Princeton University itself.

There will be hardware from Colonial days (anybody got any to lend?) ancient hand made shingles (got any to lend?) and old, old tools (don't have any).

In the "300 Years in Princeton" display will be several of G. Vinton Daffield's models of Princeton buildings, including one of the Dean's House, the home of Dean J. Douglas Brown and Mrs. Brown, lent by the Browns.

As part of the "Princeton" project, boys and girls will make an illustrated map of the area surrounding Borough Hill.

HOPEWELL TAXES TO RISE

By 18 Cents This Year. Hopewell Borough's tentative budget of $136,178 indicates that an increase of 18 cents in the tax rate is in store for Hopewell residents.

The tax rate per $100 of valuation will rise from $7.03 to $7.21. Council president J.

Neil Arrington explained that $20,000 had been removed from surplus funds to keep the tax rate as low as it is.

Although local purpose taxes will decrease from $124 to $108, the school tax is expected to jump 16 cents to $4.17 and the county tax 18 cents to $1.73.

The senior citizens and veteran exemption will stay at $21. The borough will receive $10,115 from the state for its road construction fund.

Public hearing on the budget will be March 6.

AFS PROGRAM GROWS

Two Students Sought. The Pennington-Hopewell Chapter of the American Field Service Committee has received a request from Hopewell Valley Regional High School for two foreign exchange students — instead of one — to live in the community 1967-1968. The high school's American Field Service made the first two-student request in the history of the Chapter.

Dr. Douglas J. Kersey, chairman of the chapter, and Gerald Golden, finance chairman, are calling on the community to contribute the funds needed to finance the exchange program. Community support is the project's most important source of revenue.

The American Field Service was founded to promote understanding between nations and their peoples. In the last few years Princeton students have studied and lived with families in Germany, Finland, Pakistan, The Netherlands and Australia. Students from Austria, Japan, Italy, Norway and Sweden have lived here.

 treatment for their hair, for instance, wanting a long hair-do and a short hair-do at the same time.

Today, some teenage girls like long hair, but don't understand why it doesn't look good. Stop nipping off just a little, because it never seems to work. Let your hairdresser cut your hair—this is his job.
 Give your hair conditioning treatments, not just a cream
 rinse—THERE IS A DIFFER-ENCE!

Conditioners are made to give your hair body and shine,
 so as your hair grows long,
 the ends won't become dry and brittle and start splitting.
 Cream rinses are made to remove tangles and do just to much, and no more.

If you are now growing your hair out from a short hair cut, it must be done right. Teenagers just let it grow, which means—Your hair grows much faster at the nape—the top and sides grow much faster by not having your hair shaped while it's growing long, the back will become much longer than the sides and will probably outgrow the crown area so that you will have a definite drop at the nape of your head, before you can have your hair look strappy and unkempt.

If you do as I have suggested, in no time at all you too will have a good-looking head of hair. Pick the right hairstyle for beautiful hair. Hundreds of people know that it's all in getting your hair done

OPPOSITION VOICED
 To Apartment Zone. A rezoned zoning ordinance proposed for the Borough, which includes a considerable area zoned for apartment-townhouse buildings, has met with opposition from residents.

At a public meeting held last week about 40 citizens raised questions about the need and the use of apartment townhouses, and their effect on property values. As drawn by Herbert H. Finkelstein, of Trenton, which is preparing the new zoning ordinance, apartments would be permitted in an area north of Delaware Avenue and south of the Princeton campus and the Reading Railroad.

The area would be adjacent to the present retail section of Pennington and opposite the Princeton School. One of the stipulations is that non-commercial uses created in the same zone may be continued but can be sold only for the same purpose. Asked a Pennington businessman: "Isn't that an infringement on a man's right to tell him he can only sell his property for a particular use?"

In addition, Paul Hausmann, dean of students at the Pennington School, disclosed that the school has expansion plans in mind which involve the area north of Delaware Avenue. These include additional dormitories and a chapel. If the proposed expansion were adopted, it would prohibit such additions.

Any apartments would be limited to two and one-half stories, with a minimum of four acres for each building. In addition, each would have to comply with conditions governing the site, dwelling unit, parking, landscaping and so on.

FASHION SHOW PLANNED
 By West Windsor PTA. Spring and summer fashions from Clayton's will be modeled at the West Windsor PTA card party and fashion show at 8 p.m. on March 2 in the Maurice Hawk School.

"Spring Flowers" will be the theme, and the fashions—ranging from sports to formal wear—will be shown complete with accessories. High prize for each table at the card party will be the centerpiece, an unusual bouquet of spring flowers. Refreshments, door prizes and tallies will also be provided. The tables of four will be free to select their own game—bridge, canasta, poker and scrabble equipment should be provided by the players.

Committee members are Mrs. Hugh Chromier, second vice-president; Mrs. Michael S. Finelli, fashion show co-ordinator; Mrs. Herbert Dalton, decorations; Mrs. Morton Levine, door prizes; Mrs. Robert Vandewater and Mrs. Anthony Levine, refreshments. Tickets at $1 may be obtained from Mrs. George Field (799-0625) and Mrs. Edw. Schlutz (799-1541).

MEETING RESCHEDULED

By Action Committee. The Mercer County Political Action Committee has postponed the meeting planned for next Wednesday evening, March 22 at 8:15 at the Convocation Room of the Engineering Quadrangle on the Princeton campus.

DEBORAH LUNCHEON SET

By Princeton Circle. The Princeton Circle of Deborah Hospital will hold its annual membership luncheon, Tuesday at 12:30 in the home of Dr. and Mrs. William Steinberg, 50 Woodland Drive.

GARDEN CLUBS TO MEET

In Joint Program. The Lawrenceville Garden Club and the Dogwood Garden Club of Princeton will hold a joint meeting on Thursday at the All Saints Chapel in Princeton. The meeting, starting at 11, will be open to the public with tickets, available at the door or from members, costing $1.

Mrs. Frank G. Rugles of South Hills will speak on the arrangement of flowers in the traditional manner for modern homes. Mrs. Rugles is a frequent exhibitor and award winner in flower shows.

Mrs. Michael Lanzara, president of the Lawrenceville Club, and Mrs. Wesley Owens, president of the Dogwood Club, will greet the guests. Mrs. R. M. Engelbrecht and Mrs. E. J. Sadecker, Jr. are in charge of arrangements.

DESSERT PARTY SET

By Kappa Kappa Gamma. The annual President's Dessert Party of Mercer County's Kappa Kappa Gamma Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Moore in Pennington on Thursday at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Glomire Greig of Poe Road will be co-hostess with Mrs. Mabel Greig. The guests will be spent in discussion of the Kappa Kappa project which provides toys for the pediatric wards of three area hospitals.

RENOVATED AND ROOMY

This plain old middle-age house has been practically renovated to make a comfortable, quite characterful large family house. Its assets are those of its period: solidity, large rooms, spacious entry hall, established planting, old shade trees, etc. Statistics: living room; music room; dining room; completely modern kitchen; five bedrooms; two baths; upstairs porch; full, dry basement with play area and toilet; two car garage. The real topper is a stunning master bed-sitting room — huge, square, contemporary with open beams and peaked ceiling — a handsome hideaway for child-ridden parents. Believe it or not, all this can be bought for under $40,000, a comparative rarity for a five bedroom house in the Princeton area. Actually, the house is only $37,500
